

WORLD CUP 2019

Friday 7th June - Sunday 7th July 2019

The Scotland Women's National Team will compete in their first ever World Cup this summer as France host 24 nations in the tournament to determine the world champions. Parc des Princes in Paris is the venue for opening night as the hosts take on South Korea on Friday 7th June. That is the first of 14 consecutive days of total football as the group stages make up the first round. Defending champions United States(pictured below) will be the final team to make an appearance against Thailand as all teams play 3 games in that period to try to accumulate as many points as possible.

First up for Scotland is the auld enemy England on 9th June in Nice, a country really on the up and one of the favourites for the trophy. The team then goes from the southern coast to the north west town of Rennes to face Japan on 14th June. An ever present at the top of women's football who won the tournament 8 years ago and picked up the silver medal in Canada last time around. No other team starts with 2 harder fixtures and it will be a real test for the Scots who are also making big progress in the game with 24 teams are then cut to 16 as top 2 in the 6 groups and the 4 best 3rd place teams kick off the knockout stage. Group D winners go to Valenciennes to face a 3rd place team from group E (New Zealand?), group F(Thailand?) or Group B(China PR?). If Scotland finished 2nd they would go back to Rennes to play the winners of section E potentially Canada or the Netherlands. 3rd in Group D is likely to go to Grenoble and play Group B winners (Germany?) with an outside chance of a trip to Le Havre and potentially the hosts as winners of Group A. It then can come down to extra time or penalties as all matches have to come to a conclusion to determine who proceeds and who goes home.

The matches are spread over 9 venues around France with everyone desperate to get to Lyon for the semi-finals and final. The Parc Olympic Lyonais is the home of the 52nd and final game of the World Cup when the big prize is handed out. It would be a big surprise if the winners don't come from one of the top 4: hosts France, holders United States, Germany or England but Scotland are definitely in the dark horse category and it will be a great test of where the nation stand at the top level of world football and a great experience for them.

2019 FIFA Women's World Cup qualification – UEFA Group 2

Scotland gained qualification for their first ever world cup the hard way winning 3 games from behind in an extraordinary campaign. In Poland they were 2 down with less than 15 minutes to play but won 3-2 after a Lisa Evans last minute winner. In the 3-0 home win at home to Poland the result doesn't tell the story, Lee Alexander crucially saved a penalty at 0-0 and it wasn't until the 79th minute that Zoe Ness broke the deadlock.

The penultimate game was at home to Switzerland, a 2 goal win would mean destiny was in their own hands, a draw would mean a play off and a defeat elimination. It started well 2 goals in the first 6 minutes but the Swiss pulled one back within a minute. The game finished 2-1 with both teams knowing that conceding another could have significant consequences.

Final game, Scotland needed to win in Albania and hope the Swiss slipped up. Scotland did their job, the 2-1 win a lot more comfortable than the scoreline suggested. It was a lot less comfortable waiting for updates from Poland where at 0-0 Switzerland just needed 1 goal to break the Scotlish hearts. At the final whistle the Poles had held on for a 0-0 draw and the Scots went mental in Shkodër. Scotland had qualified for the 2019 World Cup and were on their way to France.

GROUP D VENUES

Stade de Nice, Nice 9 June England v Scotland

Address: Boulevard des Jardiniers, 06206

It is located in a semi-rural area so there is not much around in terms of entertainment, though you will find a few places around rail station Saint-Isidore. Otherwise, eating and drinking is better done in central Nice.

In the 2016 mens Euros this is the stadium where Iceland knocked England out 2-1

Getting There

The stadium is located on the A8 (exit 51 and 52) motorway in the western suburbs of the city of Nice at about 10km from Nice's city centre and about 5 km from Nice International airport.

From central Nice take the Route de Grenoble north from the Promenade des Anglais near Nice International Airport.

Special matchday bus service 95 runs from Hôpital St Roch in Nice's city centre. The journey takes about 50 minutes. Bus 9/10 also serves the stadium, though the journey takes about 75 minutes.

TER train from Nice-Ville main rail station to St Augustin station, from where shuttle buses run to the stadium.

Finally, you can catch a Chemins de Fer de Provence commuter train to Diane and get off at station Saint-Isodore, from where it is a 10-minute downhill walk to the Allianz Riviera. Trains only run a few times a day, but extra trains run on event days. Trains leave from Chemins de Fer de Provence rail station, which lies a 10minute walk north of Nice-Ville station.

Roazhon Park, Rennes 14 June Japan v Scotland

Address: 111 Route de Lorient, 35000 Rennes

Whilst there are 1 or 2 bars around the stadium again it is on the outskirts of town so central Rennes would provide better facilities for pre and post match entertainment.

The 2019 womens world cup will be the biggest games Roazhon Park has hosted.

Getting There

Roazhon Park is located on the western edge of the city of Rennes, about 2.5km from the city centre and 3.5km from the main railway station.

It is just off the city's ring road. From the western side of the ring road, take exit 10 Port de Lorient, and turn towards the city. The stadium is situated on the right side of the road.

Bus 11 connects the stadium with the city centre (Place de la République) and main railway station. Take the bus in the direction of Z.I. Ouest, and get off at stop Stade Rennais. Buses The ride from Repúblique fakes about 10 minutes, from the station (Gares) a few minutes more.

Bus 30 connects Roazhon Park with the northern parts of the city.

Whilst the 3 venues for Scotland's group D matches have been highlighted in this guide it is very much hoped Scotland will get to experience some of the other 6 venues in the knockout stages of the competition.

Playing at the Parc Olympique Lyonnais, Lyon on the 7th July is the ultimate goal.

Parc des Princes, Paris 19 June Scotland v Argentina

Address: 24 Rue du Commandant Guilbaud, 75781 Paris Cedex 16

Parc des Princes is located in a typical dense Parisian neighbourhood. This means that if you walk a few blocks around the area, you will always bump into a bar or brasserie on a street corner.

Originally a vellodrome it was the finishing line of the Tour de France from its first edition in 1903 until 1967. Was a venue at the 1938 and and 1998 mens World Cup, the Rugby world cup in 1991 and 2007 and hosted many major finals. Was replaced as the home of French football and rugby in 2008 by the Stade de France.

Getting There

Parc de Princes is built on top of the Parisian ring road Périphérique near exit D9/10. It lies approximately 4km southwest of the Eiffel Tower, and less than 1km south of the Bois de Boulogne and the Roland Garros tennis complex.

Metro stop Porte de Saint-Cloud on line 9 lies a 5-minute walk away from the stadium. Line 9 passes right through the Parisian city centre (on the north bank of the river Seine), and connects with multiple other lines.

Alternatively, line 10 and get off at stop Porte d'Auteuil, which is a slightly longer walk. Line 10 connects the stadium with various stops on Paris' south bank Porte de Saint-Cloud station is also generally run at least every 15 minutes. served by buses 22, 62 and 72, whereas Porte d'Auteuil is served by buses 32 and 52. All buses run through the city centre on different routes.

THE CONTENDERS

GROUP A

Hosts France are top seeds and joint favourites for the competition. The favourite tag didn't sit well with them in Canada, suprised by Colombia in the group stages they were eliminated on penalties by Germany in the last 8. Best performance is 4th in 2011 which is also their current FIFA ranking although they have been 3rd. Qualified as hosts.

Norway are a traditional powerhouse losing in the first official FIFA World Cup final in 1991, they won at the 2nd attempt in 1995. Also won the Olympics in 2010 and the Euros in 1987 and 2003. Have dropped to 12th in the FIFA rankings having been as high as 2nd in 2003. Lost to England in the 2nd round in Canada and qualified as UEFA Group 3 winners.

campaigned for the head coach Ignacio Quereda to be sacked.

China PR have hosted the World Cup twice including the first FIFA competition in 1991. On missed out on qualification once in 2011, their best performance was in 1999 where they lost the final on penalties to the United States. The US also knocked them out last time in the last

The first match is a repeat of a 2nd round tie in 2015 where South Korea were eliminated 3-0 by France. 3rd place in Group B of the Asia Cup meant they had to play off for the 5th Asian qualifying spot where they beat Phillipines 5-0. Currently ranked 14th their highest ever position. Nigeria are 11 times African champions including last year (which doubled as qualifers for France 2019). They have played in every World Cup but have never made it out of the group stages. Ranked 38th in the world, been as high as 23rd in 2003.

GROUP B

Another team with real ambitions of glory is 2 times winners Germany. The blow of 4th place last time around was made up for by winnning the Olympics in 2016. European champions 6 times in a row (8 in total) they lost their title in 2017 so will be desperate to do well. Ranked 2 in the world they qualified as winners of UEFA group 5.

Fellow europeans Spain won group 7 of qualifying and are ranked 13th in FIFA only 1 off their highest ever position. Have only qualified for the World Cup once before, last time around where they were elimiated in the group stages only picking up a draw against Costa Rica. After the tournament the players successfully campaigned for the head coach Ignacio Quereda to be sacked.

China PR have hosted the World Cup twice including the first FIFA competition in 1991. Only missed out on qualification once in 2011, their best performance was in 1999 where they lost the final on penalties to the United States. The US also knocked them out last time in the last 8, qualified after 3rd place in the 2018 Asia Cup. South Africa make their debut in the competition after qualifying by finishing runners up in the 2018 African Cup of Nations. They have never won the tournament and that was the 5th occasion they have lost in the final. 49th in the FIFA rankings.

GROUP C

Autralia have qualified for every world cup since 1995, they have reached the Quarter finals the last 3 times, losing to Japan in Canada. Won the Oceannia Championship 3 times in a row before switching to the AFC where they won the Asia Cup in 2010 and been 2nd in 2014 and 2018, the latter gaining them thir place in France. Highest ever ranking was 4th they are currently 6th in the world.

Brazil are the strongest team from South America having won the Copa América Feminina 7 times out of 8 including last year that doubled as qualifying for the world cup. They were runners up in 2007 taking them to their highest ever ranking of 2, currently at the lowest position of 10. Italy won group 6 of the UEFA qualifiers taking them to their first finals since 1999. Quarter finalist in the first ever FIFA world cup their ranking of 15th 2015 they made it to the 2nd round but lost to belies their status. Will be hoping the 39,027 at the recent Juventus v Fiorentina match featuring Lana Cleland is a sign of good things to come for Italian football.

The Regace Girlz Jamaica make their debut at this level after finishing 3rd in the CONCACAF Championship last year beating Panama on penalties to secure the last spot. Lowest ranked team in the tournament at 53 which is also their highest position.

Canada lost to England in the quarter finals of their own tournament 4 years ago. They were disapponted not to match at least the fourth place finish in 2003. Currently ranked 5th in the world they qualified for France 2019 after finishing 2nd in the 2018 CONCACAF Championships. The Netherlands go into the World Cup as European Champions on a high after winning at home 2 years ago. Although they did require the play offs to qualify this time. After finishing 2nd behind Norway in group 3 they had to overcome Denmark and Switzerland to take the last European place. Canada 2015 was the first experience of the world cup for the team ranked Femenina 2018 to qualify for their first ever World 8th by FIFA.

New Zealand are in their 5th World Cup although they have yet to get out of the group stages. Dominated the Oceania Nations Cup since Australia left winning 4 in a row, an 8-0 win in last years final. This doubles as World Cup qualification, currently ranked 19 in the world. Cameroon beat Mali in the 3rd place play off of the 2018 African Cup of Nations to take the final CAF place in France. In their first World Cup in China PR. Ranked 46th by FIFA.

The number 1 team in the world and defending champions are the United States, 2015 was their third title and they have also won the Olympic gold medal 4 times. Qualified by winning the 2018 CONCACAF Championship, their 8th continental title. A favourite to defend their title. Sweden are another team that have been ever present in World Cup finals with a best finish of runners up in 2003. Lost to Germany in the 2nd round in Canada and qualified for France by winning Group 4. They won the first ever Euros in 1984.

Thailand finished 2nd in Group A of the 2018 AFC Asia Cup to qualify for the World Cup finals for the 2nd time. It was their best finish in the tournament since they won it in 1983. In 2015 they beat the Ivory Coast to finish 3rd in group B to just miss out on the 2nd round on goal difference after 4-0 defeats to Germany and Norway. Ranked 34th in the world they made it into pot 3 of seeds.

Chile finished 2nd in the Copa América Cup finals after beating Argentina 4-0 as they hosted the tournament. Ranked 39th in the world they are the last of the 4 nations making their debut in the competition including Scotland.

COME ON SCOTLAND

Brief History

The first FIFA official FIFA Women's World Cup was in 1991 in China won by the United States. However there were a number of unofficial competitions during the 1970s and 80s, Denmark won the first in 1970 and Norway won the last in 1988, the latter ran by FIFA as a test event for that first World Cup. Scotland did not compete in any of those events and as we know have not qualified before now. However there is a Scottish World Cup winner. Rose Reilly (pictured) pursued a very successful professional career in Italy and France as there were very limited options in Scotland at that time. Along with Edna Neillis and Elsie Cook she spoke out about the pre-historic attitude of the SFA to women's football but their response was to ban all 3 sine die. In Italy it was the opposite as Rose was widely recognised as a fantastic player and made eligible to play for Italy. She played 22 times for Italy, scoring in the 1984 World Cup final to lift the trophy after a 3-1 win.

Scotland did not enter in 1991 so 1995 was the first entry in the competition where they finished 4th in the qualifiers and were eliminated. UEFA then split teams into 2 classes which meant Scotland first had to get promoted before it was even possible to qualify for the World Cup. Scotland got promoted in 2003 and finished 3rd in qualifying for the 2007 tournament. The class system was dropped in 2009 and Scotland have steadily improved since then, 3rd in 2007 became 2nd in 2011 then 2nd in 2015 was enough to earn a play off that they lost to Netherlands and finally in 2019 qualification was ensured by winning the group with some real back to the wall and come from behind victories.

France 2019 will be the 8th official FIFA World Cup as the tournament goes from strength to strength, the 4 debutants will bring the total number of countries who have played in the finals up to 36. Although only 4 of these nations have lifted the trophy. Details of previous finals below.
